Yehovah, The Self-Existent One

I AM
Hayah

THAT/WHO
Huw

I AM
Hawah

1. Psalm 68:4 (KJV) -- Yah -- I AM (Strong's H#3050)-----Yah
2. 1 Kings 18:3 margin -- Obadiahu (Yaho) (H#5662)-----Hoo
3. Nehemiah 7:43 -- Hodevah (H#1937, See H#3068)-----Vah

YHWH    Y-e-H-o-V-a-H (#3068)    =    Yehovah

1. Yah--Psalm 68:4 is the poetic form of the Father's Name, and the only remaining fingerprint of His covenant Name in the KJV. But a Berean using a concordance and this one witness will be led to almost 7,000 other witnesses. Every LORD or GOD (in capitals) in the KJV has YHVH as the underlying Hebrew. So hated is this Name that this single clue in Psalm 68 has been obliterated in all of the newer versions. NIV? RSV? Poof! Gone. This Name has great power over evil!--Jeremiah 10:6.

In Hebrew, names are contracted differently. In Hebrew, a contraction would be the first letter and the last vowel sound. In English, Michael is contracted to Mike. In Hebrew, Michael would be contracted to Mel. This is why the Father's full name is JehoVah, but the poetic contraction is Yah, combining the fist and last syllables.

2. Hoo--Eliyahu (1 Kings 17:1, margin) is a 2nd witness (Strong's H#452). The names of the patriarchs and prophets that end in "iah" (or "ea" in the case of Hosea) are all Yah in the concordance. Many of these were originally Yahoo (Yahoo). The first and second syllable of the Father's Name. You might find out what these names mean as they are all very fitting. Jeremiah-hoo (H#3414) = "Yah will Rise." Isaiah-hoo (H#3470) = "Yah has Saved." Obadiah-hoo = "Serving Yah." Eliyahu = My El is Yehovah. Eli means "my Elohim" as the man from Galilee uttered in Matthew 27:46. El is short for Elohim, roughly translated as Mighty One (of hosts) or Almighty.)

3. Vah--So far we've only used the Y-H-V. There is another letter. Hodevah means "Majesty of Yah." Which part of Hodevah is translated as "Yah"? The vah of course. Dodavah in II Chronicles 20:37 is a 2nd witness and means, "Love of Yah."

For then will I turn to the people a pure language, that they may call upon the Name YeHoVaH, to serve Him with one consent. Zephaniah 3:9

You will find no support for Yahweh anywhere in the Hebrew Scriptures. Yahweh is the Greek rendering for the Father's Sacred Name.
